an article on Wasaib

I too read this article because it was posted by Rizwan, and no doubt and no disagreement with basics. But one notices the same endless repetition of the word 'feudal', no doubt a bad thing. And we Seraikis (and Sindhis) have been facing this scorn since long and mostly in reply to our assertions about Punjab's domination and regional disparities. (needs not to elaborated that feudalism is bad for its timeworn values and uselessness, and that it is in rapid decay, agriculture is no more a sustainable economy.

And most importantly, feudalism does no more stands among the types and groups sucking the blood of people here, the business, the IFIs, the monopolies and top of all the Establishment,, not that it

It is time now to address the subject avoid wasting peoples time by using in answer

But very because was 'feudalism' with some facts-data. Existence of decaying feudalism does not justify national and cultural domination. And struggles may not be redirected from their real focus to cliches of class and ideology.
