
Overseas Seraikis

Posted by admin - 2006/09/11 11:00

Dear all,

This site is also a meeting place for our overseas Seraiki sons. They are showing more interest in registering themselves on wasaib. They are requested to leave their messages on forum section which is automatically published on homepage. It is not a commercial site and is the property of all Seraikies. You all have your experiences in alien lands, sweet or bitter, share those with your brothers. How did you find this site give your suggestions, we'll try to improve it.

Regards

Admin.

Post edited by: admin, at: 2006/09/11 11:21

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by badrani143 - 2006/09/13 05:34

Dear,

Admin

Khahishaan Kadahin poriyaan nahin thindan, Dil Ahdai jo ithaan Wasaib tein dhaer sara mawad howay takeh perdaes wich rah K wtan tay Wasaib di mounjh dour na thiway kam az kam ghat Zaror thiway. Dowain tohaday nal hin.

Dowa,

Milsoon.

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by badrani143 - 2006/09/13 05:34

Dear,

Admin

Ager Mumkin howay taan A Zaror Daso keh tosaan kitho kaney hawo.

Dowa,

Milsoon.

Post edited by: badrani143, at: 2006/09/13 05:41

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by mlmakkar - 2006/09/17 06:22

Dear All,

I migrated to India in 1947 during partition. We all lived in Retri village near Nava Janda Wala distt. Bhakkar.

Does anybody have any information about the existence of this village ?

We still speak Seraiki language in our homes.

Thanks

Madan Lal Makkar

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by badrani143 - 2006/09/17 07:03

Madan Lal Makkar,

Dear Madan Lal, Its great to hear from you that u stil speak Seraiki in ur home its just great, Dear if i was in Pakistan i would have given you News about your Village i hope this Village is stil there You are not only One in India there should be Lot More Seraiki ppl I hope they also speak Seraiki.

Ager Koi khidmat maiday Zimay howat taan bunda Hazir Hay.India wich wasaib da Lokaan ko best wishes.

Ghulam Hassan

=====

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by admin - 2006/09/17 08:24

Dear Madan Lal,

One can never forget his homeland.Your Retri is still intact.It is only 40 km. north of my village.Islamabad-Karachi direct highway passes a few km. west of it,and it is linked by a metalled road at Fazil with the main highway.Pathan families originally live here.The village is electrified and isalso linked by road with Jandanwala and Dullewala.Dullewala is in south 17km.There is a boys high school.The area is partially irrigated by canal water.Sand dunes are still there. How old were you when as a resultof the accident of partition, you had to leave your home.There are few Mohajir families who were settled here on your property.

Regards,
Anmin

=====

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by mlmakkar - 2006/09/30 16:03

Dear Mr. Ijaz and Mr. Ghulam,

I am extremely touched to see your reply. It gives me immense pleasure to know about my ancestral village. Thankyou so much for connecting me again to my village memories.

I was seven years old when we left with our families to India but I still have very clear memories about my village. I miss the fruit "Pipoo", "Dokey" and delicious "Khumbi".....

If you happen to meet some one from Retri please convey my regards to descendents of Fathey Khan Pathan and others who had saved our lives when we migrated to India.

I hope to visit my ancestral village someday along with my sons who also want to know more about Retri.

Thanks and regards,
Madan Lal Makkar

=====

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by admin - 2006/09/30 23:14

Dear Madan Lal,

I am of your age.I have some friends at Retri.I will enquire about the family you referred.You are most welcome, if u come to visit your motherland.Pipoon are no more but wild khumbis are found in hot rainy season.

Regards,
Ijaz Bloach(Admin) +923007789414

=====

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by vixbenny - 2006/10/23 03:02

Dear Friends

I am touched, truly touched to see the love and acceptance of all us sons of the Motherland.

There has been so much prejudice about Pakistan and Pakistanis in India, and am sure the same on the other side of the border about Indians too. But there was always hope that humanity on either side of the border still lives with love.

I know that Multani has several dialects / variations. I dare to start interacting with you all in Seraiki today. Hope you will accept.

Ajj Multain di Site dekh ke dil khush thee gay.

Sade Dada Dadi Multan Sheher koli aye hann. Multan di bauun gaal karende hann. Multan dekhann da dada dill karenda he.

Medi umr sirf ikatti (31) saalan di hay. Main Multan kadhai(n) nahi dittha. Lekin ladga ee(n)ve hay ki Multan meda apna sheher hay.

Multan aavan da koi tareeka hove da dasso. Main apne vatan ko0(n) ta apne vatan waalyea koo(n) milna chahna.

Bhagwann di daya hosi ta main apne vatan zaroor lautsa(n). Narsihm Bhagwaan da Mandir dekhna chaahna. Ajj wee uttha(n) pooja theendi hay ki koina?

SHukriya ta dher saara pyaar,

from Bangalore, India.

=====

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by admin - 2006/10/26 00:18

Dear Seraiki brothers and sisters.

We are a large community of Multanis (as we call ourselves) in India. I live in Bangalore, in South India.

I currently head a language insititute here and am very glad to see that steps are being taken to revive my mother tongue.

In India, it being a cauldron of languages and culture, our identity was diffused and mixed with Punjab (with which we undeniably share a linguistic and cultural affinity). At the same time, having our immediate ancestors living in Delhi, our mother tongue was considered to be Hindi (or Hindustani), while at the same time, living in Bangalore, which is a very cosmopolitan town, the lingua franca was English and the regional language Kannada. Multani (or Seraiki) was spoken only at home, among the elders.

Today, in the age of revivalism, when Punjabi Pop and Culture is finding its way to Hindi Cinema, it is a fresh breez of freedom to be able to say, I speak Multani. I AM Multani, an identity that was earlier hidden or shunned.

I am glad to be part of this Site. I hope to contribute to the development of this site.

A suggestion that i have is to involve more and more Hindu Seraikis and to write more about the past Hindu culture. For the Seraiki identity is not that of Muslim Pakistan, but something distinct. Our indenty is (un)fortunately divided and lost between India and Pakistan, and yet we all yearn to be again identified with our MOTHERLAND. The meaning of Motherland on both sides of the divide is today only politically defined. While the truth is that all Seraikis, be they Hindu, Sikh, Muslim, Christian, Jew or Parsi, are Seraikis. The partition was a painful separation. The hatred and violence unwarranted.

It is time to heal the wounds in our psyches and to make brotherhood and peace and amity our goal, for that is what all our religious and spiritual traditions stand for.

I congratulate this site to have maintained a non-religious and unbiased outlook unlike that of PTV and other state run sites and channels.

I am glad to see this movement coming for within Pakistan, and it reassures me that we are still part of THEM, our brothers and sisters; for love knows know boundaries nor limitations.

My embraces and heart-felt gratitude to you all.

Vikram Malhotra

00 00 00 00 00 00
00 00 00 00 00 00
00 00 00 00 00 00
00 00 00 00 00 00
00000000 00000000 00000000 00
000000000 0000000 0000000 00

Asim_joiya

Re:Pls who contacted Mr. Madan Lal

Posted by vixbenny - 2007/01/10 05:34

Dear Gautam

How are you?

HOpe to see you sometime.

We can have a little siraiki get together in Bangalore.

There are several Siraiki Families in Bangalore.

My no. is 9880394353.

Vikram

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by Altaf - 2007/01/10 08:30

Dear all respectable seraikis.

sub koon salam

its very diificult to write a message in our language.

Please be noted my one imported message.

Now a dys every one is phasing a problem for the marraiage of there son / daughters & may be some one have this problem for there close relatives.

We have a wasaib forum to cummnicate to each other & we have to sincerly discuss these issue & make some solution for this world wide problem.

Wasiab should make a one corner for this issue. my contact number in UAE is +971506701721. for any detail discussion & further advice my mail is altafawanryk@yahoo.com.

Waiting for comments from wasaib

Altaf Awan

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by harisawaisi - 2007/02/13 01:31

Dear all

Main bahawalpur riyasat dey heq pak sheher KHANQAH SHARIF naal taluq rakhenda haan jithan meda poora khaandan kathy rahndey ALLAH de fazal-o-karam naal lekin main tey medey waddey bhai seheb ithan Canada perhern kitley aaye hisey bass INSHALLAH 6 months baad medi graduation thee wesi tuadey duaen da talabbgaar haan. Medey laiq koi kamm howey tan zaroor hukum karahey.

Mian Haris Awaisi
(Khanqa Sharif) Bahawalpur.

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by Altaf - 2008/01/07 02:22

Dear Haris awaisi,

Dear my name z altaf and i am working in Saudi arabia now a days, my home town is Rahim Yar Khan.
Dear my younger brother is doing BSC from bahawalpur university, Rahim yar khan campus.
my wisehes for him to see as Engineer but due to merit he is doing BSC.
Please advice for good choice for future. no problem i can spend money for his education.
my mail id is altafawanryk@yahoo.com
Thanks

Altaf awan

Re:Overseas Seraikis

Posted by GEO - 2008/04/02 14:13

WEDONE DEAR
