
The lost battle

Posted by bakhshoo - 2007/02/21 11:13

The battle has been lost...

An entire civilization is at the verge of disaster .. our people are killing each other ... sweet verses of love and peace are found no where ..

We only hate each other or in a way hate ourselves ... nothing is safe any more .. no future prospects for the generations to come ..promises have not been kept..

A few years from now, people from foreign lands will take over our lands and laugh at how we killed our own civilizations with our own hands..

It was us who gave the gift of knowledge & wisdom to the world .. we were the most civilized people a few hundred years back ..

alas everything has been lost... the end is coming sooner than expected .. the day of absolute collapse is not far ...

Bakhshoo Saeen Faqir

=====

Re:The lost battle

Posted by fmiana - 2007/02/21 23:11

Dear Hussain Baksh ,

You seem quite upset with the events taking place in Pakistan. The situation prevailing in Pakistan indeed is dismal and grim , with no possible solution in sight. I really understand every word of your message. But we should not lose hope that things will change for better . History is testimony to the fact that when ever any nation is in doldrums God bestows it with a leader who steers it out from the difficult times, Churchill , Abraham Lincoln ,Mustafa Kamal and Ho Chi Minh are few examples. At the moment we dont have any such leader , but life of the nations is very interesting thing , it has capacity to change every moment . We should pray God that he showers his kindness on our people and land , for , the situation you predicted , will infact be ominous and formidable .

Regards

=====